

CAMPAIGN LIE PROVEN FALSE

General Corbin Did Not Urge Cooper's Re-nomination At His Speech At Elkhorn.

SPLIT TICKETS ARE NOT ALLOWED

Prohibition Candidate For Governor Plans To Invade His Old Home Town Seeking For Votes, Very Soon.

Another campaign lie has been nailed on the head, General Corbin, U. S. A., did not endorse Congressman Cooper for renomination at the picnic in Elkhorn last week. The Milwaukee Sentinel says:

The statement is being circulated in the interests of Congressman H. A. Cooper throughout the First district that Gen. H. C. Corbin endorsed his candidacy for re-election at the soldiers' and sailors' reunion at Elkhorn last Saturday. A stenographic report of the speech of Gen. Corbin does not show that he used the congressman's name. For the purpose of ascertaining the facts, The Sentinel communicated with Gen. Corbin direct. His answer shows that while the speaker endorsed Mr. Cooper's course on the Philippine tariff bill, he did not endorse his candidacy for re-election.

In reply to a question as to whether he had endorsed the First district representative in his speech, Gen. Corbin replied yesterday in the following telegram from Lake Geneva:

The Letter.

To the Editor of the Sentinel: "Re-lying to your telegram, desire to say in my address last Saturday at Elkhorn I made an earnest plea for fair and honest treatment for the Philippines. So far as this was an endorsement of the wise and statesman-like course of Mr. Cooper as a member of the house of representatives, I answer in the affirmative. That I made any mention of Mr. Cooper, the candidate, or that I injected myself into a political contest, I answer in the negative. Absence from Ft. Sheridan prevented earlier reply.

"H. C. CORBIN,
"Lieutenant General."

No Split Tickets.

Voters can not cast split tickets at the primary election next Tuesday, but can do so at the general election in November. This is the opinion of Assistant Attorney General Tittus.

Judging from the large number of inquiries received at the attorney general's department, there seems to be quite a general impression throughout the state that a voter can split his ballot at the primaries, selecting one or more candidates from the different party tickets. This can not be done. The only way any change can be made in a ballot is to write the name of some candidate on another ballot on it, but such vote can only be counted for the candidate as a member of the party on which ballot his name is written.

Examples.

In other words, if a voter should write the name of Davidson on the democratic ballot or that of Ayward on the republican ballot, the vote would be thrown away, as neither would run on the opposition ticket. The ballots will not be the same as printed in the official notices in the newspapers, but in the form of several sheets held together at the top by a staple or other fastener, each sheet containing the names of the nominees of a single party.

It will be seen that under the law the independent voter is restricted in his choice to one or the other of the lists of candidates on the different party ballots. At the general election, if he votes, he will have to support the candidates nominated at the primaries, though he can slash his ballot then as he desires.

The attorney general this afternoon received a telegram from Surgeon General saying that some one had flooded Door county with marked white ballots and asking if there was any penalty for such an act. The attorney general believes that such an act is not an offense under the law.

Eaton's Trips.

Dr. E. L. Eaton of Madison, formerly pastor at the Court Street church here and a candidate for governor on the prohibition ticket, will begin his campaign on Sept. 20. A thorough canvass of the state, the first meeting being held at Sussex, will be made. While on the trip, Dr. Eaton will deliver speeches every day. He will be accompanied by W. D. Cox, state chairman, and A. M. Thatcher, of Boston.

The complete itinerary is as follows:

Sept. 20, Sussex and Menomonee Falls; 21, West Allis and Waukesha; 22, Pewaukee, Hartland, and Oconomowoc; 23, Oconomowoc; 24, Watertown and Marshall; 25, Madison; 26, Stoughton and Edgerton; 27, Milton Junction and Port Atkins; 28, Brodhead and Monroe; 29, Orfordville and Janesville; 30, Daraboo; Oct. 1, Onalaska and La Crosse; 2, Prescott; 3, Superior; 4, Ashland; 5, Phillips; 6, Prentice and Rhinelander; 7, Merrill; 8, Waunakee; 9, Grand Rapids; 10, Stevens Point; 11, Waupaca; 12, Neenah and Appleton; 13, Kaukauna and Green Bay; 14, Peshigo and Marinette; 15, Marinette; 16, Oconto Falls and Shawano; 17, Clintonville and Oshkosh; 18, Oshkosh and Ripon; 19, Brandon and Waupun; 20, Ripon; 21, Janesville and Fond du Lac; 22, Glen Beach and Plymouth; 23, Sheboygan Falls and Sheboygan; 24, Port Washington and Whitefish; 25, Janesville and Beloit; 26, Delavan and Elkhorn; 27, Burlington and Union Grove; 28, Collins and Racine; 29, Kenosha and Bristol; 30, Milwaukee.

One of the features of the campaign will be the trip of the Badger automobile quartette, which is touring the state in the interests of the party. The quartette is under the direction of E. A. Bredin of the Wisconsin School of Music. August, E. Fehlmann, candidate for lieutenant governor, is a member of the party. The other members are G. P. Sawies and V. J. Wilcox.

BRYAN EDITOR MAY RUN FOR CONGRESS

Gilbert M. Hitchcock of the Omaha World-Herald May be Nominated.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Omaha, Neb., Aug. 30.—The democratic of the Second Nebraska district are holding a convention today to select the man to make the race against Congressman John L. Kennedy this fall. Gilbert M. Hitchcock, editor of the World-Herald and for years an associate of William J. Bryan, is prominently mentioned for the nomination.

To Oppose Holliday.

Brazil, Ind., Aug. 30.—Democrats of the Fifth congressional district hold their convention today at Rockville to name a candidate to make the race against Congressman Elias S. Holliday of this city. All signs point to the selection of Claude G. Bowers of Terre Haute, who opposed Holliday two years ago.

MEMORIAL TO THE ONE LOYAL JACKIE

Unveil Tablet in Honor of John Conway Who Refused to Haul Down Flag at Pensacola.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Camden, Me., Aug. 30.—A large number of officers and men of the North Atlantic fleet were among those present today at the unveiling of a tablet in honor of Bill Conway, the United States sailor who, at the outbreak of the Civil war, refused to haul down the American flag at the Pensacola navy yard, when all the officers at the yard renounced their allegiance to the Union. Conway was a native of this town. The memorial is the joint gift of the people of Camden and the Maine Loyal Legion, and consists of a large boulder on which there is a tablet suitably inscribed. The address at the unveiling was delivered by Major-General J. L. Chamberlain of Portland.

BRYAN IN TRIUMPHAL ENTRY OF METROPOLIS

He Will Attack The Trusts, But Will He Discuss Public Ownership Of General Service Utilities?

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, Aug. 30.—Between crowds of countless thousands that lined both sides of Broadway from the Battery to Central Park, William J. Bryan made his entry into New York today after an absence from the country of nearly a year. Even those whose political faith held them aloof from the popular demonstration were bound to admit that it was a "triumphal" entry, the like of which the metropolis had not seen since the return of Admiral Dewey after his victory at Manila Bay.

The plans as arranged by the several committees were carried out without a hitch. As the distinguished Nebraskan, with Governor Folk of Missouri at his side, rode up Broadway the crowds cheered, men waved their hats and women waved greetings with their handkerchiefs. From curb to building line the sidewalks were closely backed with men, women and children struggling for a place of vantage from which to get a view of the central figure of the day's demonstration. Doorways were filled, the roofs of buildings were thronged and every window held its party of spectators. The hotels and many business houses were decorated for the occasion.

Mr. Bryan was pleased with the warmth of the demonstration in his honor. He bowed cordially both right and left in response to the cheers of the crowd and several times expressed his pleasure to those about him.

The parade to the Victoria Hotel, where Mr. Bryan rests until evening, was but a preliminary to the day's program. The grand finale is slated for tonight in Madison Square Garden, where 12,000 cheering democrats, representing all factions of the party and every section of the country, gather to welcome Mr. Bryan and to hear his speech in reply. While the 12,000 privileged ones assemble within the big auditorium several times that number will gather in Madison Square and the adjacent streets to do their share toward making the "homecoming" a success. According to the completed program Mr. Bryan will arrive at the garden at 8 o'clock. For an hour previous to that time the crowds will be entertained with music by Puccini's Band and the Metropolitan Opera House band. After Mr. Bryan's arrival Governor Folk will call the meeting in the garden to order and will make a speech, after which he will introduce Mayor Tom L. Johnson of Cleveland to preside. Augustus Thomas, the playwright, will deliver an address of welcome on behalf of the Commercial Travelers' Anti-Trust league, which took the initiative in planning the reception. Mr. Bryan will then deliver his speech on the democratic issues of 1906. Afterwards he will address an overflow meeting in Madison Square park. It is expected that it will be midnight before the demonstration is concluded.

There is considerable speculation in both democratic and republican circles as to just what Mr. Bryan will say in his speech. The greater part of the speech was prepared on the other side of the Atlantic and was finished on the way home. During the past twenty-four hours Mr. Bryan has showed the speech to a number of his most intimate political friends, whose criticisms and suggestions he has carefully noted.

It is generally agreed that Mr. Bryan will attack the trusts, and it is possible that he will go further and give his views on certain forms of public ownership of the utilities. It is not thought that he will enter upon the money question beyond repeating his recent assertion that conditions have eliminated money as an issue.

THE NEGRO IN FARM LIFE IS DISCUSSED

At National Business League Meeting—Colored Elks in Convention at Columbus.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 30.—"The Negro in Agriculture" was the chief topic of discussion at the sessions of the second day of the National Negro Business League conference. The speakers, all of whom have been conspicuously successful in farming, included John C. Henderson of Lexington, Ky., Alfred Smith of Oklahoma City, Deal Jackson of Albany, Ga., and William Boyd of Ellington, S. C. Charles Nunn of Indianapolis, Ala., spoke on the subject of market gardening. Daniel P. Freeman of Washington, D. C., told of the possibilities of success for the negro in photography, and Charles S. Carter of Norfolk, Va., spoke of tailoring as a business for the negro.

INDIANS READY FOR THE STATE FAIR NOW

Grant Fisher is Given Praise For His Efficient Work as Superintendent.

This morning's Milwaukee Sentinel has the following to say regarding the state fair and Superintendent Grant U. Fisher of this city and his work:

A colony of twenty-five "strapping" "bucks," ten squaws, and several papooses will dance the war dance, give the weird Indian wedding and funeral ceremonies, and exhibit other customs of the race at the Indian village at the state fair.

At a meeting of the Indian village committee held yesterday F. B. Melville, who was recently commissioned to visit the reservations in the northern part of the state to secure the Indians, reported that he had completed all arrangements and that the red people will arrive in the city on the Sunday before the opening of the fair. The Indians will come from the vicinity of Lac du Flambeau.

At the Indian village a number of the squaws will be found mending Indian baskets and weaving Indian blankets. Indian trinkets will also be made at the fair and the life of the red men will be portrayed as nearly as possible.

It is now planned to have the Indians lead the monster parade of school children on the opening day of the fair. Arrangements are being made to secure horses for the Indians, and it is proposed to give the head of the procession to the Indians, who will be mounted.

DAVIDSON SPOKE TO BIG AUDIENCE TODAY

Six Thousand People Hear Him Give His Reasons for Asking Support.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Galesville, Wis., Aug. 30.—Governor Davidson and W. D. Connor spoke at the fair grounds today from 12:30 to 2 o'clock to an audience of more than six thousand people. If men can be believed everything is for Davidson and Connor here. Senator Morris, who spoke at the fair yesterday, said Ekern must be given the third term in the assembly, as he was slated for the next speaker. Dr. Geo. Hidershede is making a campaign which will probably beat Ekern for the nomination.

PHONETICS NOT TO BE TAUGHT

REFORMED SPELLING NOT TO BE ADOPTED IN SCHOOLS.
FOR SOME TIME AT LEAST
Buell Calls Roosevelt's Action Radical—Some Educational Board Members Favor Changes.

It phonetic spelling, according to the so-called Carnegie list of three hundred words recently adopted by President Roosevelt and the United States government, is discussed by the Janesville Board of Education it is not at all likely that it will be ordered taught in the public schools for some time. Though reforms are generally conceded to be necessary there is a strong sentiment against certain kinds and some aversion to any "adoption" of a list. It seems that phonetic spelling could be taught in one way. That is from new spelling books and by the reform of all text books. Such will not be on the market for some time and no matter how strongly the reform is favored it will be impossible to teach the new spelling for a year or more.

Changes Come Naturally.
Superintendent of Schools H. C. Buell is much opposed to making any change and speaks of "Roosevelt's break." He said: "Changes in the English language come in the natural order of evolution as 'e' has been dropped from 'ax' to form words like 'prior, color, honor, etc.,' me from program and 'be' from catalog. Modifications are not effected by resolutions of any groups of enthusiasts or devotees of phonetics, by committees on reformed spelling or by a presidential proclamation but they come by general acceptance. I am against the adoption of the list in the schools because I am unwilling to declare at one instant that all present published volumes of books are inaccurate, because the valuable publications of the world would thereby be cheapened.

"Do you think the school board will take any action?"
"Well, there is no danger of the list being adopted immediately.
Some Reforms are Good.
Dr. S. B. Buckmaster, president of the board, had not deeply considered the matter of reformed spelling, had not investigated the methods by which it could be adopted and was unwilling to say anything on the subject. Arthur Fisher, chairman of the committee on text books, said: "The board will be influenced by the action of the leading colleges and universities of the country. Personally I am in favor of any necessary changes that will improve the language and keep it up to date but I am opposed to any changes that will destroy the integrity of the words or their root meaning." Frances Grant held much the same view and explained the manner in which the changes could be taught. He said: "I thoroughly approve of the elimination of silent letters when the words are not made unfamiliar as a result. For instance I do not believe in shortening 'crossed' to 'cross', 'missed' to 'mist', etc. (These are among the reforms of the Carnegie list). It is not the business of the board to adopt any list unless the changed words are generally accepted for use. The adoption could be only through new text books in which the new forms are used."

Mr. Day is enthusiastic.
Mrs. J. B. Day, the only woman member of the board, expressed herself very much in favor of reform. "I'm heartily in sympathy with the simplified system of spelling," she said, "and favor dropping of all useless letters. I believe every word in the Carnegie list is an improvement and hope to see them used generally. Though the board may not take any action I think the present agitation will result in many improvements."

Past, Present and Future Paint
The best "past" paint is the paint which has worn down evenly, leaving the surface ready for repainting without the need of expensive scraping and "burning off."
The best "present" paint is the paint which is applied with least labor, covers the most surface per gallon, and looks the best when on.
The best "future" paint is the paint which lasts without cracking or peeling, affording perfect protection for the greatest number of years.

CENTER HOMESTEAD DESTROYED BY FIRE

Residence of Mrs. Charles Topple Was Burned to the Ground Yesterday Afternoon.
Yesterday afternoon the residence of Mrs. Charles Topple in the town of Center was totally destroyed by fire and had the wind been in a different quarter the home would have gone also. All the furniture and other articles of value were saved through the assistance of neighboring farmers who hastened to the scene but who were powerless to do anything towards saving the structure itself.

RECENT SHIPMENTS LIVE CARP IMMENSE

Forty Thousand Pounds Sent in One Day—That Record Broken Tuesday.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Fort Atkinson, August 26.—The Ft. Atkinson Fish company has made record breaking shipments of carp the past few days. A number of shipments of twenty-five barrels, totaling over forty thousand pounds, have been made. Most of the fish go to Fulton Market, New York City. They are packed in ice and it is claimed that they are still alive when they reach their destination. Tuesday's still larger shipment was forwarded, nearly eighty barrels of the fish, making five truck loads, were sent to New York.

VOTE BY BALLOT NOT BY MACHINE

This is the Answer to Numerous Inquiries From Citizens Not Familiar with Primary Law.
Janesville's voting machines cannot be used at the primary election next Tuesday for reasons which everyone familiar with the machines and the working of the primary law will readily understand. The ballots which are to be used are in several sections, one for the republican, one for the democratic, one for the social democratic, and one for the prohibition party—and are perforated and stamped at the top. The voter must vote but one of these and cast the remaining portion of the ballot in a box prepared therefor. He is allowed, however, to write in the names of candidates of other parties as substitutes for the printed ones, if he sees fit. But it is not permissible, according to the ruling of the attorney general, to vote more than one party ticket. The party committeemen must be of his own choosing as no names of candidates will appear on the ticket. Each ticket is divided into two columns and the "pigeon holes" left blank for the committeemen are at the bottom right-hand corner. The choice of these committeemen is important because collectively they compose the county, assembly, senatorial, and congressional committees who are to have charge of the several campaigns preceding election day.

EAST PORTER.
East Porter, Aug. 28.—The cool nights which we had the forepart of the week made the farmers a little bit anxious about their tobacco. The finest crops grown in a great many years is now being "shedded".
Mrs. Jay Shaw is now visiting her sister, Mrs. Horton in Iowa.
Miss Nellie Hubbell is visiting relatives in Waterville, Canada.
There will be church services next Sunday again after a two weeks' vacation.
Rev. Price and family are improving his vacation making calls on friends.
Mr. and Mrs. James Thomson of South Fulton visited East Porter relatives last Sunday.
The work on the new telephone line has come to a standstill. The farmers are too busy at present to complete it.
It was reported last week that Miss Mauger had accepted the position of teacher in the upper room in the Fulton village school, but since then we are sorry to learn she has sent in her resignation.

PROPER MANAGEMENT OF DOGS.

Some Things Lovers of the Animal Should Bear in Mind.
In managing your dogs there will not perhaps be much fun unless you can follow your individual notions on what constitutes enjoyment. There is not perhaps a single thrill in twisting your soul to carry out processes which rasp against the grain. However, I am not your parish priest, but a dog man, says Joseph A. Graham, in the Outlook Magazine. Whatever your imagination may invent, a dog is still a dog, and has none of the attributes which we assign to ourselves when we feel mushy. A dog understands "yes" and is equally competent to grasp "no." Outside of that, he is all dog and follows his dog ways. He indulges in no mental refinement and will not comprehend many of your changes of mood or mind. Whatever you undertake to teach, make it plain, simple and unchangeable. It is a pity that he must be taught not to jump up on people and compliment them with his caresses. He means well, but must be disciplined sternly into knowing that it is not in good form under any circumstances. The discipline need not be accompanied by any severity. A light touch with a whip, if applied invariably, will soon settle the matter. Some kennel men adopt the plan of stepping lightly on the hind foot, and it is perhaps the clearest way of conveying the idea.

Given Away.
Mrs. Thomas Johnson Smith was being married for the fourth time in the little country church in which she had been raised. The ceremony was proceeding with all solemnity until the minister reached the point: "Who gives this woman to this man to be his wife," and a voice away back in the congregation replied: "I generally do."—Harper's Weekly.

LINK AND PIN THIS IS GAY WEEK

Both railroads are preparing today for the handling of Ringling Brothers' three trains tomorrow. The circus comes in over the North-Western from Fond du Lac and is transferred to the St. Paul line to go to Freeport for Saturday's performances.

St. Paul Road.
A freight car was derailed and tipped over onto the main track at Stoughton this morning. As a result traffic was blocked and the Madison-Chicago train was an hour and a half late, arriving here about noon.

Fireman Bush passed the examination for engineer in Milwaukee yesterday and will be put on the extra list here. Patrick McDonnell was successful in his examination for fireman and this morning went out on the time freight, number 65.

Locomotive 312, on the way freight, was disabled by a broken blow-off cock yesterday and had to be towed in from Avalon by switch engine number 1079.

The new turntable was used for the first time this morning. Freight handler Nieson placed 126 and took it into the roundhouse after she had been turned by Joe Seluri and his helpers.

On account of the delay of the Chicago-Madison train yesterday morning Conductor Leahy's train made a trip to Milton and return to make connections with the Milwaukee train from Madison.

North-Western Road.
Engineer Wilcox has reported for work on the extra list.

Fireman Gesland is dispatching nights and runs 525 and 529 are being taken by Fireman Walter Wildie. Fireman G. P. Hiller has been placed on the extra list.

Switchman Cochrane is on the extra list.

Engineer Seidmore is laying off and his place in the north end freight pool is being filled by M. A. Crowley.

Miss Alice Harper has resumed work in the freight office after a two days' illness.

Engineer James Clark is off duty and is being relieved in the Fond du Lac freight pool by Engineer D. R. Dunwiddie.

An Animal Story For Little Folks
The Long-tail Cat
"What a wonderful fellow is the monkey!" said the cat one day. "He is as nimble as a flea, and with that remarkable tail of his he can swing about in the trees without ever using his feet. Why can't I have a nice long tail like his instead of this one, which is of no use to me?"
"You can have one if you wish," said a little hoptoad who sat at the roadside blinking his big eyes in the summer's sun.
"Pray tell me how!" cried the cat.
"Fasten the end of your tail to your doorknob, and whenever anybody calls at your house and opens the door your tail will be stretched a little. After awhile it will have been stretched so much that it will be as long as the monkey's," said the little hoptoad.
So the cat fastened the end of his tail to the doorknob, and pretty soon a visitor called at his house and gave the door a fearful pull.
Ouch! How it did hurt poor Mr. Cat! And then somebody else called, and then somebody else, and each time there was a yank at the cat's tail, and a yell from the cat. After awhile, sure enough, the cat's tail was as long as the monkey's, but such a miserable, painful tail it was! There was only one thing to do, and that was to have the tail cut off entirely.
"I haven't any tail at all now!" cried the cat.
"I haven't had any since I was a tadpole," said the hoptoad.—Atlanta Constitution.

Vandalism.—Some graceless scamp ruined a fine shade tree in front of the Norris House, on North Main street, on Tuesday night by sawing the body clear through. Anyone who would perpetrate such an act only needs the opportunity to steal. Shade trees in the street are public property and a general benefit and the person guilty of destroying them deserves severe punishment.

LENROOT'S IDEAS
Aspirant for gubernatorial honors Irvine Lenroot has conceived the idea of catching the farmers' vote by advocating "good roads," by making an amendment to the state constitution which will allow the passage of measures to draw from the state treasury money for road building. It is a true catchy argument and many doubtless have imagined that it would work exceedingly well in view of the fact that Mr. Lenroot says that his idea is to use the money received from the new taxation of railroads, inheritance tax and other sources for this purpose. The hearers, however, have not stopped to consider the matter thoroughly. In the southern section of the state the roads are practically all built. In the northern portion, however, they are not. Do the farmers of the southern counties want to see these appropriations used to develop that section of the state solely? The talk that there are no state taxes now is all a fable. There are certain taxes levied each year—the educational taxes, the University taxes and others. If there is going to be such a surplus in the state treasury from the new sources why not use this to do away entirely with the state tax? The idea of good roads is excellent, but the system of taxing those directly benefited by the roads is the best method of their being accomplished without injustice to other sections of the state. Mr. Lenroot has caught a popular cry, but is a man who seeks to deplete the state treasury a safe man to trust at the head of the state government? Good roads are essential to every community seeking prosperity, but they should not be built at the expense of taxpayers in a distant community. Each year Rock county pays the mill tax which goes for school purposes and the northern part of the state receives the greatest benefit from it. It would be the same way with bills for road improvements. They would be built in Sawyer or Gates counties at the expense of Rock county. Consider this question when voting next Tuesday.

THE OLD STORY
If the Beloit Free Press editor does not land that postoffice job from Congressman Cooper for the able manner in which he has told half-truths during the present pre-primary campaign, Mr. Cooper is indeed an ingrate. No one believes that the editor of the Free Press is a republican because of the mercenary interest he has in politics. He is too old and tried a warfare for that charge to be made or believed. However, his readers will remember that two years ago he printed the La Follette ticket at the head of his editorial columns so that he might secure the contract for printing the official ballot. Of course that is not mercenary, but it verges, gentlemen, it verges just a little onto the commercial ideas. The Gazette has no ax to grind in opposing Cooper. It has no postoffice appointment to regret not having received, and it is not seeking a single office and only hopes to waken the people to selecting a man who will be alive to their interests and not let his sympathy for a lot of Malay laborers run away with his better judgment. The Philippine tariff question is the problem that confronts us, not anything that happened before the war or after the war. What Congressman Cooper was fourteen years ago is not the question now. The real problem is that he betrayed the interests of his constituents in voting for the Philippine bill. The Editor of the Free Press has proved his valor as a fighter and no one impugns his methods. He probably shot as straight during the Civil war as he talks now and every one honors him for the fact he served his country faithfully as a soldier and has long been rewarded for that service by being postmaster of Beloit. May he be again selected to that honor. He has done Cooper invaluable and priceless aid. Two years ago he stood between Cooper and defeat and had it not been for his efforts and those of Nolan, Whitehead and Jeffis, Cooper would now have an X in front of his name. Intellect, however, does not always go with grey hairs and while grey hairs are respected the world through they should not take advantage of the fact to slur on younger men. The Gazette is a republican paper. It can not be read out of the republican party by any erstwhile boss. It is also a friend of the people and voices their sentiments. It is not afraid to say truths about men in public life and does not attempt to gloss over mistakes by referring to acts of former days. Congressman Cooper has served his district fourteen years. Congressman Cooper voted for a measure that would take the bread and butter out of the mouths of the farmers and their children. He has been adjudged an enemy of labor by President Comers of the labor organizations. For these reasons he is unfit for continuation in office. It is to be hoped that when this bitter strife is over Mr. Cooper will reappoint his faithful henchman of the Beloit Free Press to the postmastership and peace may reign once more.

THE ARGUMENT
The greatest argument of the supporters of the Philippine Tariff measure is that the Islands do not grow enough tobacco or sugar to come into competition with American farm products. Perhaps that is true, but with free importation to the United States, cheap lands, a climate especially fitted for such crops, labor practically nothing and ocean transportation a minimum how long would it be before the exports from the islands grew to such a size that they would supply the world. There is the rub. Perhaps they do not grow it now, but they can. Experts tell us that the Philippine tobacco is similar to the Wisconsin leaf and would take the place of the local crops. If this be true and with the above conditions existing how long would it be for the Wisconsin tobacco fields to be deserted, the tobacco warehouses fall into decay as have the old plantations of the south, and the mortgages accumulate on the farms in Rock county? These are questions to be considered in voting for the congressional candidates next Tuesday.
Wisacres claim that Davidson will carry the First Congressional district by a large majority. Tuesday next will tell whether the people prefer the stenographer from Superior or a business-man in the Governor's chair.
The Milwaukee Free Press seeks to defeat Babcock and promises to do great things and to support its position publishes long letters from Cooper regarding his reasons for voting for the Philippine Bill.
In another column of the paper will be found the proposed franchise for the Janesville and Madison Railroad company. Read it carefully and then bring pressure to bear upon your alderman to pass the measure.
The Humane Society is ready to take action against the man who threw acid on a poor forlorn dog a few nights ago if anyone will give them the name of the wretch. Now do not all speak at once.
Tuesday next is primary day. Then this election for nomination will be over and the candidates can settle down to two months of work fighting each other.
Roosevelt and his new system of spelling promise to give lots of bother to the school teachers and make excuses for bad orthography up to date.
The attorney general's office has decided that on Tuesday next the ticket cannot be split, so be sure and decide who you are to vote for and then vote right.
Now that the cool fall days have come the heat of the summer is forgotten and the talk of the winter's coal is being discussed.
The democrats are making strenuous efforts to hold their party together.
Congressman Cooper paid Janesville a visit overnight. He sees many changes since his visit of a year ago.
In Thos. S. Nolan the voters of the First Congressional district have a candidate they can depend upon.

Lorraine "Iona" Flannels

No doubt many readers of this paper are familiar with the name "Iona," having seen the Flannels which go by the name "Iona" advertised in the leading magazines.
"Iona" Flannels is a shrunk, washable flannel with just enough cotton mixed in to make it wear well. It is made by the Lorraine Mfg. Co. It is an ideal material for shirt waists, dressing sacques, wrappers, children's wear, and the patterns and colorings are simply irresistible.
We have taken the Janesville agency for "Iona" Flannels and are now showing a large assortment of them, received August 29th. Consider this a personal invitation to call and see these beautiful flannels. 29 inch, 40c.

THE NEW DRESS GOODS

We are much pleased with the manner in which the trade are buying the New Dress Goods. For early fall buyers we have received 150 pieces of Dress Goods and Waistings. Misses going away to school, or people who for one reason or another have to get fall or winter outfits now, will find this the place to make for.

Had to Come to Janesville.

A Beloit lady consulted a leading dentist of her city and said: "Doctor, if you can do my work without hurting me you may have my patronage."

The dentist got mad in a minute and replied:

"Nobody can do painless work."

"I know better than that," replied the lady, "for I have been to a Janesville dentist who never hurt me in the least."

"Well, you better go back to him," said the ruffled dentist.

And she took the next car to Janesville where Dr. Richards did her work as she desired. Painlessly.

She said on leaving, "Dr. Richards, you never hurt me a bit."

It's queer, isn't it, that while scores of disgruntled dental dentists declare most emphatically that there is no such thing as painless dentistry?

Yet Dr. Richards goes right along serenely doing that very thing and the people are standing by him for they appreciate efficiency and skill.

GIVES IDEA OF THE ROUTE

Two Routes to Leave the City—River Road or Out Milton Avenue.

This evening for the first time the readers of the Gazette can learn something definite of the proposed route of the Janesville-Madison Railway company. The petition for a franchise which appears in another column is most interesting to read. It recites some of the proposed changes in the line of the present city road and gives two loop ways for the line to leave Janesville to Madison. One route would indicate that Milton and Milton Junction were not to be touched and the other that the Ford was to be left out.

Some Changes. One of the proposed changes is a loop on the present Forest Park line extending from the present end of the line down to Rugar avenue; thence over Liberty street to Vernon and down Milwaukee avenue to the present corner where the road turns on Jackson street. There will also be a turn-around loop inside the city near the Corn Exchange. In going up the river two routes are suggested by the requests. One up Main street to the city limits to the Fulton road and the other out North Bluff street to the same road. The other exit from the city is suggested by extension of the present line out Milton avenue to the city limits.

Is in Earnest. The first publication of this franchise comes today and it will be presented at the next council meeting but once. This if passed promptly by the council will give Mr. Clough time to begin operations this fall before the snow flies and allow him an early start in the spring. The line will be a sure thing this trip if the council acts as they should and grants the franchise requested. The question of hauling freight cars to the sugar beet factory is also in the franchise in an indirect way, as the petition requests that two cars be allowed to be hauled behind one trailer anyway and the council to determine how many more. These are not freight cars in the sense of regular freight cars, but interurban cars which are similar to the fine express cars hauled by the steam roads.

No Double Tracks. There is no petition for a double track down south Main street, and this cannot mean to frighten limit property holders is now forgotten. The petition covers nearly every phase of the prospective interurban and will mean direct connection with Janesville and the cities to the north to the betterment of trade in general.

HUMANE SOCIETY OFFERS REWARDS; MEANS BUSINESS

Ten Dollars for Evidence That Will Convict Acid-Thrower and Ten for Other Information.

Offering two ten-dollar rewards for evidence that will convict the guilty parties in two cases of cruelty to animals, the Janesville Humane society has declared active war on tormentors and slayers of dogs. One cash bundle will be given the person or persons who will furnish evidence to lead to the arrest and conviction of the "well known business man" who on the evening of August 18 threw acid on a canine and sent the beast howling through the main streets. The other "X" will be given for information regarding the persons who yesterday threw a mother dog and her puppies into the river near the Monterey bridge and allowed them to suffer in a half freezing state until put out of misery by Marshal Appleby. Mrs. John Peters, vice president and acting president of the Humane Society, thus opened the campaign today and she, backed and assisted by every member, intends to continue it. Persons suspected of poisoning dogs in the second ward are being watched and when any evidence can be secured steps to prosecute offenders against the state laws will be taken. Only today Officer Fred Beneke was called to dispatch a cocker spaniel owned by Fred Bergman of 202 North Bluff street. His little daughter and another child were walking with the animal when he discovered a piece of meat in a culvert. Immediately the dog was taken violently sick and was put out of his misery. Two weeks ago another dog was poisoned in the same way. Other instances have been reported in Madison several weeks ago the recorder of deeds of Dane county was found guilty of poisoning dogs and fined $75 and costs.

OLD SETTLERS AT BIG PICNIC TODAY

Janesville Sent a Delegation of Over 20 to Ho-No-Ne-Gah—Several Thousands Were Expected.

L. C. Brewer, L. L. Fletcher, and over twenty other Janesville people departed this morning for Ho-No-Ne-Gah park to attend the third annual outing of the Rock River Valley Old Settlers' Association, comprising the Illinois counties of Winnebago and Boone and the Wisconsin county of Rock. Peter Champio, who was at the Aloysius picnic at the park yesterday, said that preparations were being made there for the accommodation of 8,000 people today. Hitching posts for 1,000 teams were set up and the other arrangements were on the same scale. Attorney E. D. Reynolds was to be the speaker of the day at today's big celebration. The Beloit city band was to play and a fine time for all of the participants was anticipated.

DRUBBED ROCKFORD NEWSIES YESTERDAY

St. Aloysius Society Lads Had Time of Life at Ho-No-Ne-Gah Park Yesterday.

Yesterday was a great day for eighty-two members of the St. Aloysius society of St. Patrick's church. The boys took an early interurban car for Ho-No-Ne-Gah park and spent the day there in feasting and playing the games that are dear to every American lad's heart. The feature of the celebration was a baseball game with the newboys of the Rockford Register-Gazette. They were enjoying their annual outing at the same resort and the contest was arranged by Father James McGinnity, who was in charge of the local merry-makers, and the Sporting Editor of the Forest City newspaper. The Bower City team was composed of a bunch of heavy hitters and they hammered two Rockford pitchers out of the box, scoring 6 against the 3 of Rockford. George Barry turned the best trick, scoring two home runs. The local players were good in the field too and pitcher Robert Erdman struck out fifteen men. The Janesville lineup follows: Robert Erdman, p; Frank McCaffrey, c; Matt Ryan, ss; Chas. Foley, 1b; Ed. Sullivan, 2b; Jas. Fox, 3b; John McDermott, cf; Joe McCaffrey, cf; Ed. Kelly, rf. The Rockford editor acted as umpire. Another ball game was played, the opposing teams being from the fourth and fifth wards of the city. The fourth won by a score of 8 and 7 and then did ample justice to the prize-nine watermelons. The teams were composed as follows: Fourth—Ed. Kelly, c; A. Connell, p; M. Ryan, ss; B. Sullivan, 1b; E. Birmingham, 2b; M. Dulin, 3b; J. McCarthy, rf; J. Gilligan, lf; Hogan, cf. Fifth Ward—J. McDermott, c; R. Erdman, p; J. Fox, ss; D. Barry, 1b; E. Kelly, 2b; C. Foley, 3b; J. McCaffrey, rf; H. Schickler, lf; Foley, cf. In the individual contests prizes were captured as follows: Harold Schickler, fountain pen; Robert Erdman, (2) diamond scarf pin and silk necktie; George Barry, (2) silk necktie and gold cuff links; Eugene Kelly, baseball glove; Earl Kelly, silk cap; James McCue, telescope; Tom Farrell, swimming suit. In the tug-of-war the fifth ward boys won.

The Italian band rendered many fine selections during the day and their music was particularly pleasing on the return trip.

Officer Peter Champion, who is enjoying his vacation, accompanied the delegation.

SATURDAY NIGHT BABY PARADES

BUSINESS MEN SAY IT INJURES TRADE.

THEY BLOCK THE SIDEWALK

Makes Walking Difficult for Shoppers Who Are in a Hurry.

"People who are downtown Saturday nights and have business to transact have many things to complain of," said a Janesville business man last night as he surveyed the throngs passing up and down the streets. "It is impossible to hurry along the streets and if one has something pressing to attend to he is driven to the asphalt to make time. One thinks that makes it hard the fact that thousands, or at least hundreds, of people come down just to be in the crowd. Other nights only those with something to do are on the streets and progress is not difficult. Saturday night the people come to 'rubber' and they obstruct those who want to trade. The crowd has no destination and lags along at a snail's pace, sometimes three or four abreast, effectively blocking the sidewalks to those who would hasten their footsteps."

"An irritating feature of the Saturday night crowd, but one that is most natural for those who are idly spending their time, is the tendency to stop in the middle of the walk to chat with friends. The police try to keep the people moving so there will be no congestion, but they cannot be everywhere at one time and the knots will form here and there. Then, too, the walks in downtown district are jammed with people, too much so to accommodate the throngs that appear at the end of the week. Thus a small group almost entirely blocks the way and causes no end of inconvenience. Of course, this is done thoughtlessly, but it irritates just the same."

"I have seen two or three women stand on a sidewalk at a principal corner for fifteen minutes, talking and laughing, huffed this way and that, shoved and almost trampled on, looking injured when they were bumped into, always oblivious of the fact they were taking the space that belonged to other people."

"One might get along with these groups, but another nuisance is greater. This is the baby carriages. Of course mothers have a perfect right to bring their infants downtown if they want to and no one would deny them the right. Often they must bring the baby or stay at home, and no one can blame them. However, no matter how much their position may be defended, the fact remains the baby carriage is an impediment to the throng. When two or three little girls walking alongside there is a damper on haste. It is the cause of much silent blasphemy on the part of those meeting or seeking to pass them. Other nights for in the daytime they do not cause so much trouble, but Saturday night they are a nuisance."

"It is not only the men who complain of this, but the women also. After dodging one of these contrivances three or four times temper begins to leave. Then someone dodges around the same side and from an opposite direction and there is a collision that farther jars tempers. About that time shins are barked on the wheels and it is all off."

"It really seems as though the man or woman pushing the perambulator has as hard a time as those who dodge past, but they seem to come the next week just the same. It would seem that a crowd would be the last place anyone would choose to take a baby carriage, but it is not for any Saturday night one can count a dozen passing a given point in a short time."

"I wish I could devise some means of keeping them away from the business streets Saturday night, but I would be called a hard-hearted brute and maybe I am."

DUKE OF DEVIL-MAY-CARE

By Harris Dickson.

CHAPTER XVI.

A DASH IN A CAB.
Joe halted at the prison gates, his hands deep in his pockets, his head bent down, struggling with all the strength that God had given him to see the straight course for Duke and himself to pursue. Duke and himself, yes, it was their affair; they would be jointly responsible for whatever had happened, for whatever came of it.

Yet before he went back in there, he must be cool and calm, his brain must be clear, he must consider many things. His head now was in a whirl, spinning round and round with a clamorous and riotous disorder that drove him mad. The few ideas that he seized upon and dragged from the chaos were disconnected, vague, fantastic even. The girls were in New Orleans, crushed, broken, withered, they could stand but little more. This riotous would cause them misery unspeakable. He must get them away, get them home before the storm broke. Besides, he could not have Mrs. Chaudron's quiet house besieged by a horde of harpies clamoring for details. He and Duke were men; they were responsible; they could endure. That did not matter.

Joe had always looked through the eyes of his heart upon the frailties of "Noel-Duke." When the judgments of his head had been too severe, then the man's heart, which after all was stronger, had folded the transgressor to itself. In his book of judgments there was many and many a page upon which his tears had fallen until they washed it pure than the snow.

"It's my fault, my fault entirely," he kept saying to himself; "I could have prevented it; I could have kept him in Vicksburg; my God, if I had only known!"

But he did not know; he had done his best. He lifted his head in the air, the sun shone upon his face; he turned decidedly and entered the gate. A gust of wind, chill and dank with prison odors smote him; he shivered but did not halt.

Baker had been leaning against a post waiting for Joe to leave. It worried him to see the lawyer turn and reenter the prison.

"That fellow's going to make a pile of trouble; I always thought 'e was going to get in the way from the first minute I clapped eyes on 'im." He followed, muttering to himself, for he did not like the set of Joe's jaw.

The detective waited just outside the door when Joe entered the jailer's office.

Jimmy Fitz and the red-faced jailer, Fogarty, had their heads very close together, so intent upon their Irish argument that they heard nothing else. Joe entered the room abruptly, and without waiting for a pause in the conversation tapped Fitzgerald on the shoulder. "I want to see that prisoner again," he said.

Fitz thought, of course, it was Baker until Joe spoke, then he sprang up and overturned a chair.

"I want to speak to your prisoner," Fitz looked at the jailer undecidedly, and the jailer looked back at Fitz. Baker tried to catch the eye of either, shook his head, but wisely remained outside.

"But, Mr. Balfour," Fitz commenced. "You needn't send for him," Joe said; "I shall go to his cell."

"Which is his cell?" Joe had stepped out into the hall again, and was already walking down the corridor. Fogarty lagged behind, conferring in whispers with Jimmy Fitz. Baker pulled at Fitz's sleeve on the other side.

"What are we going to do?" Fogarty asked. "Don't see how you can help it," Jimmy answered, doubtfully; "he could make a hell of a row if you didn't let him see the man. Maybe that would be worse. I reckon we'll have to play the string out this way."

Joe had reached the cell and turned. "Give me the key?"

Fogarty surrendered it without a word, sweating at himself for being such a fool.

Joe unlocked the door and went in. He took the precaution to close it carefully behind him, and left Fogarty standing in the corridor.

"Well, I'm damned," said Fogarty. And Jimmy Fitz looked as if he felt pretty much the same way about it.

Duke had his back toward the door; he was peering through a grated window into the courtyard. For several minutes, perhaps, Joe stood there looking at him, with all the tenderness of a father who has himself been wild, toward his best beloved and most wayward son. For such a father well knows the sufferings of such a son.

"Noel," he called very softly. The man at the window wheeled; Joe's uplifted hand hushed an exclamation.

"Sh! Don't speak too loud, they may be listening."

Joe looked once into the eyes of his friend, then he stepped forward and held out his hand, the hand of boundless trust, of faith unshakable.

"I knew you would come, Joe," said Duke, as if the other's presence in the parish prison gave him no surprise.

Joe put his arm about the younger man's shoulder, and drew him from the window to a chair. They sat opposite each other at the rough table, alone, facing a crisis. But, now that Joe was here he could not force his awkward tongue to frame a single one of all the questions that burdened him.

"Well, Joe," Duke spoke first, and with the resignation of a man who has grown accustomed to the depths. "Well, Joe, everybody must know it by this time. But for God's sake don't let her name be dragged into the newspapers. I can keep quiet!"

The hope came out into Joe like a knife. Duke was essentially a man of combat and of action; the fact that he could remain passive, marked, a vital change in the man. But his eye was calm and steady, there was neither fear nor back-down in it. Joe said nothing; there was nothing he could say.

"Joe," the other looked up suddenly from the table, "where did she go? I saw her drive off that morning in a carriage, and don't know whether she came back to the hotel or not. I searched everywhere. I have not seen her since—since this happened."

"She is at Mrs. Chaudron's with her cousin."

"Miss Ashton was taken ill, wasn't she?"

"Yes."

"I thought that must be the reason. She did not look well when they drove away." He dropped his head in his hands; after all it did not matter very much, not now; nothing mattered.

"Does she know where I am?" He did not raise his head.

"Yes; she was here just now; she saw you when you came into that room."

Duke tottered to his feet, leaning heavily with one hand on the table. "Why did she come to this place?"

"You would not give your name, and the police wanted to identify you. No, it wasn't possible that way, but—"

"Anita! Come to identify me? My God!" he sank back into his chair again.

"Yes, both the girls are at the Chaudrons," Joe repeated, aimlessly; "Mrs. Chaudron took them home with her after Mrs. Ashton disappeared. Of course they couldn't stay at the hotel alone. They are completely crushed and heart-broken."

There was perhaps never another instance in his career when he failed to assume his full share of such an argument. But this discussion presented no openings; there were no crevices, no joints, no pauses for breath or punctuation. There was only one side to the argument, and Joe was taking good care of that. There were no gaps where he could squeeze in a suggestion, no halt for mouth-filling, mind-relieving words.

At sea Noel Duke had made a dazzling reputation for his command of spectacular English suited to a sailor's comprehension. But now, for once, he listened in wide-eyed, tight-lipped admiration, as a rank amateur listens to a past-master of his art. There was never an instant when he felt that a syllable of his could add to the picturesque remarks of steady old Joe Balfour—easy-going Joe, who was noted for holding his temper and his tongue.

Jimmy Fitz, Baker and the jailer huddled closer in their corner; they wriggled and writhed, but did not contradict. And therein they displayed their eminent good sense.

When the tempest had lashed itself to tatters Joe reached into the huddle, caught Baker's arm and jerked him out. "Get me a cab—and get it quick!"

Baker vanished through the door. Joe held his position between Jimmy Fitz and the hall, making a few observations that he had forgotten during the first eruption. Neither of the men replied; Joe was very sorry that they did not.

For several minutes Jimmy Fitz stood with his mouth open, as if waiting a chance to get in a word. Then he lifted his finger, and pointed: "Your cab is waiting, Mr. Balfour."

As Joe bolted out of the prison gates he caught Baker by the arm. "Get in that cab, quick!"

Baker had not expected this, but he got in; and Duke got in behind him.

"To the House of the Samaritan," Joe ordered the driver.

The cabman lashed his beast. It was half-past 11 o'clock on Sunday morning.

"Well, you see, Mr. Balfour, it was this way—"

"Those two Frenchmen helped to put a stretcher in the ambulance—"

"Yes, Mr. Balfour," Jimmy had now caught his breath; he spoke in the most conciliatory tone, spreading out his hands as if he were pouring oil on the troubled waters. "Yes, Mr. Balfour, you see it was reported by a physician that Mrs. Ashton had the smallpox, and we wanted to keep it quiet until after Mardi Gras—"

Joe stopped, perfectly still, and stared at the officer. He could not comprehend.

Jimmy Fitz nodded, without a glimmer of surprise on his face. Joe looked at the jailer, at Baker—neither of them were surprised.

"Then, then," he commenced rather vaguely, but his voice began to rise; "then—you knew—this—all—the—time? Then you were lying to us and sending us off on all sorts of fool errands—keeping us amused like a lot of children?"

Jimmy Fitz smiled blandly. "Of course, Mr. Balfour, you appreciate the necessity for keeping it quiet—"

"For keeping quiet? For keeping quiet—"

"Yes, sir, you see it would not do—"

The storm burst. Joe furiously denounced the detectives, denounced the police, denounced their whole infernal system.

Once Jimmy's voice piped out, weak and apologetic: "But the board of health—"

"Damn your board of health, damn your Mardi Gras, damn you, and all your pack of lies—"

Joe advanced farther and farther into the room until he drove the three men into a corner where they had to listen. He overwhelmed their explanations in a whirlwind of impetuous wrath.

Duke stood in the doorway, listening.

There was perhaps never another instance in his career when he failed to assume his full share of such an argument. But this discussion presented no openings; there were no crevices, no joints, no pauses for breath or punctuation. There was only one side to the argument, and Joe was taking good care of that. BACK TO OLD KENTUCKY

Louisville Club Planning Great "Home Coming Week."

THE EXERCISES TO BE ELABORATE

"Welcome," "Foster," "Daniel Boone" and "Greater Kentucky" Days Will Be Celebrated Next June—Chances For Former Kentuckians to Win Handsome Prizes—Several Bands Will Render a Famous Song.

Acting upon a suggestion made to it by a young lady born in Kentucky, but now living in Colorado, the Louisville Commercial club is to have a "home coming" for all Kentuckians next June, says a Louisville special dispatch to the New York Globe. The plans as far as matured contemplate a celebration much more extensive than any of the "home coming" weeks ever held in New England. The dates fixed are June 13, 14, 15, 16 and 17.

The first day will be known as "reception and welcome day." Every county in the state will establish headquarters in the new armory at Louisville, where registration of visitors will take place. This will be followed by a civic and military parade. Colonel John Watterson has been invited to deliver the chief address of welcome and former Governor David R. Francis of Missouri the response. Among many others invited to appear on the program are former Senators William Lindsay and John G. Carlisle of New York city, Associate Justice John M. Harlan of the United States supreme court, former Governor Thomas T. Crittenden of Missouri and former Vice President Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois.

Thursday, June 14, is to be "Foster day" in honor of Stephen Collins Foster, the author of the immortal song "My Old Kentucky Home." The events of the day will include brass bands and vocal concerts, it being planned to mass several bands to render "My Old Kentucky Home" and have a chorus of several thousand children honor Foster's memory. The Commercial club has arranged with Miss Edith Yandell, the Kentucky sculptor, to make a statue of Foster, to be unveiled on this day, to be later placed in the new capitol at Frankfort. The statue will cost about $6,000 and will be paid for out of contributions by the school children of Kentucky.

Friday, June 15, Daniel Boone day, will give both host and guest the opportunity of paying tribute to the Kentucky pioneer, reviving the state's earliest history, the trials and perilsations of its men and women in the eighteenth century, the fights led by General George Rogers Clark, Kentuckians at the River Raisin, etc. It is expected that the entire day will be spent in the parks of Louisville.

Following the oratory there will be given old fashioned games, in which prizes will be awarded. Other features of the day will include sewing bees, apple parings and corn huskings, the day concluding with the Virginia reel, danced on a platform built inside a stockade to hold a thousand couples. The club is now arranging for the necessary shocks of corn and barrels of apples to be used in the huskings and parings.

Special recognition is to be paid on this day to all the kindred of Boone who attend the festivities. A handsome medal will be given the person present who can prove the closest relationship to the great pioneer. Arrangements have been made with Colonel C. C. Block, who has presented the city of Louisville with a statue of Daniel Boone, to have this statue unveiled on Daniel Boone day. The statue is being placed in a picturesque spot in Cherokee park.

Saturday, June 16, has been set aside as Greater Kentucky day, with barbecues, campfires and the like—a day when the speakers can tell how Kentuckians have assisted in making the fields of other states more prolific, the bench and bar of other states more learned, their press more profound; how Kentuckians have helped disclose the hidden mineral treasures of other states and how they have contributed to advancement under all conditions.

Sunday, June 17, will be given over to the spirit inspired by the song "On the We Meet Again." All the pulpits of the Louisville churches will be filled by ministers of the gospel who are former Kentuckians.

The census of 1900 shows that there are more than 600,000 natives of Kentucky now living in other commonwealths of the United States. The Louisville Commercial club, while it would be gratified to have the name and address of every one of those former Kentuckians for the purpose of extending invitations to them, does not expect to receive a complete list, but has placed on foot a plan whereby it hopes to procure a large percentage.

The club expects to get the railroads of the United States to make a rate of one fare for the round trip for this great event. It also expects to arrange with the railroads to grant thirty and sixty day extensions on all tickets, which will enable visitors to leave Louisville on the night of the 17th for any point in Kentucky to stay for a time with their friends.

The club is planning to make handsome awards, in addition to the Boone prize, to the following: The former Kentuckian present who came the greatest distance; the former Kentuckian who has lived longest outside the state without having returned; the former Kentuckian present who left the state at the tenderest age; the former Kentuckian present who left the state at the most advanced age.

Baby Mine

Every mother feels a great dread of the pain and danger attendant upon the most critical period of her life. Becoming a mother should be a source of joy to all, but the suffering and danger incident to the ordeal makes its anticipation one of misery. Mother's Friend is the only remedy which relieves women of the great pain and danger of maternity; this hour which is dreaded as woman's severest trial is not only made painless, but all the danger is avoided by its use. Those who use this remedy are no longer despondent or gloomy; nervousness, nausea and other distressing conditions are overcome, the system is made ready for the coming event, and the serious accidents so common to the critical hour are obviated by the use of Mother's Friend. "It is worth its weight in gold," says many who have used it. $1.00 per bottle at drug stores. Book containing valuable information of interest to all women, will be sent to any address free upon application to: BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

Choose, Oh, Woman!
Justice allows no one to retain both the scepter and the spade. If man, in the fight for life, had at every turn to say to his fair business rivals, "Allow me, madam! Please take my place! I will offer my resignation," the victory would swiftly be to the weak. If woman desires, or is forced, to descend from her pedestal and vie with man, says a writer in Temple Bar, she must be willing to observe the rules of the exhausting conflict.
